This transformation changes the appearance of Pokémon and increases its statistics, and can also change types and abilities. Mega Evolution can be used outside the battle through external motion, Mega Evolve. Requirements To be able to use Mega Evolution, the player must have equipped with a Mega bracelet (obtained from winning the first fight with the mega evolved boss Pokémon) and Mega Stone compatible with the selected Side of Pokémon. Please note that wristbands cannot currently be fathered through Creative. Mega Stones can be obtained from the corresponding mega evolved Pokémon boss. The first defeated mega boss of each pokémon species will always drop his Mega Stone, while subsequent defeats will have a 1/40 chance of dropping another copy of the stone. This means that when you beat your first boss, you will always receive a copy of his stone and a fresh Mega bracelet. Subsequent defeats by the same boss will have a 1/40 chance of dropping another copy, but the other bosses are still guaranteed to give you their stone until you beat them. Using the Player wears a mega bracelet Once all the requirements for Mega Evolution are met, Pokémon Mega Evolved can be used whenever they hold their Mega Stone. Please note that the player must be wearing a mega bracelet; Mega Evolution will not be available if not equipped. In the battle before Pokémon uses the move, there will be a mega evolve option. If this option is selected, Pokémon will develop immediately, after which it will be able to select the movement as usual. Please note that updates on the next corner; the order is decided before Mega Evolution. Mega Evolution persists throughout the battle, even if Mega Evolved Pokémon shuts down. Pokémon will return to its basic form if the battle ends or Pokémon gets over. Only one Pokémon per side can mega evolve during a battle, with the other automatically locked. Mega Evolution in battle may be prohibited by enabling the Mega Clause battle rule. It also prohibits the use of any Pokémon that holds its Mega Stones. NPC Trainers do not require a Mega Bracelet to use Mega Evolution, but they still require Mega Stone to be held compatible by Pokémon. NPC Trainers at higher levels of the gym can occasionally use Pokémon that can Mega Evolve. Out of battle When mega evolution is out of battle, it can be started by selecting the Mega Evolve outer thrust. For more information, see the main article at: Mega Evolve (external thrust) Pokémon Only a certain Pokémon can Mega Evolve. Charizard and Mewtwo have two different Mega Evolutions that each require a different Mega Stone. Key Stone is an accessory that is required for players to use Mega Evolution. This is not an item; rather, it can be taken on or off from inventory directly. Key Stone must be unlocked and worn for Mega Evolve and Pokémon players. If a player wears Key Stone, a Pokémon owned by a player will be able to Mega Evolve in battle if they hold their corresponding Mega Stone. If key stone has not been unlocked, or if the player has unlocked Key Stone but is not wearing it, Mega Evolution cannot be used. Mega bracelet By defeating mega evolved boss Pokémon, the player unlocks the ability to equip the keystone. It will usually be in the form of a bracelet. Once this option is available, the player can wear and remove the key stone on the inventory screen. The mega bracelet will be visible on the player's left hand when worn out. Boost necklace For players who have reinforced server disagreements and have their account mismatches linked to their forum account, as well as with their forum account linked to their Minecraft account via PixelLink, will also be able to wear it as a necklace visible around the player's neck as mega items (Key Stone). Mega Glasses By defeating mega evolved boss Pokémon, the player unlocks the ability to equip Key Stone. Mega glasses are a secondary option that is unlocked at this time. It can be seen in the player's face like sunglasses with a mega stone logo on his sides. Mega Anchor By defeating mega evolved boss Pokémon, the player unlocks the opportunity to equip the Keystone. Mega Anchor is a secondary option that is unlocked at this time. It is seen around the neck of the player, with an anchor that has a mega stone logo falling on the lower part of the player's body.
